Introduction to UCU

14 September 2023

Guaranteed Hours Tutor Induction,
School of History, Classics and Archaeology

What is a trade union?

- A trade union is a democratic counterweight to the power of the employer in a workplace.
- It is a membership organisation, i.e., run by and for its members, to defend and improve pay, working conditions, and pensions (deferred pay) for members.
- Members in a trade union use their collective knowledge and power to influence employers and challenge workplace injustice and exploitation.

University and College Union (UCU): who we are

UCU is the largest trade union in the UK for workers in post-16 education (universities, colleges, prisons, adult education, and other education providers). We are:

- Postgraduate students
- Lecturers
- Researchers
- Instructors, tutors, demonstrators
- Professional staff and managers
- Admin, library and computing staff

UCU Edinburgh

UCU Edinburgh is the University of Edinburgh branch of UCU.

UCU Edinburgh organises and negotiates with the University alongside the two other recognised campus trade unions: Unite and Unison.

Edinburgh

HCA UCU Edinburgh local contacts:

- Sonia Tycko
- Megan Hunt
- Murdo Homewood - PGR local contact (murdo.homewood@gmail.com)
- Siân Davies – PGR local contact (sian.davies95@icloud.com)
- Robert Suits Local contacts are your first point of contact within the union if you are experiencing issues at work – LCs can offer advice where appropriate, or connect you with an expert within the union

What have UCU Edinburgh members done for tutors?

Campaigning and negotiating over many years led to:

1. Discontinuation of zero-hour contracts as standard for hourly-paid tutors.
2. Payment for marking in addition to the paid preparation time for tutorial.
3. Payment for attendance at training and meetings.

Full details on UCU Edinburgh website

But there is still a lot more to do!

Can students or postgraduates join UCU??

Yes! There are two free membership options available.

-> If you are an enrolled PhD researcher who is also contracted to teach at the higher education institution at which you are registered for your PhD studies, we offer free membership for up one year. Select 'Standard Free' membership when joining.

Can students or postgraduates join?

- UCU's 'student membership' category is open to students training to teach in post-school education, including PGCE students.
- If you are a postgraduate student at a university or HE college and are planning a career in higher education (but are not an employed postgraduate student) you are also eligible for student membership.
- This category of membership is free while you complete your studies.

You can claim tax relief on your subscription

- UCU members are entitled to offset a proportion of subscriptions paid against tax paid (less any voluntary contribution made to the Education Support).
- When completing a tax form, claims should be made under the section relating to 'professional fees and subscriptions'. The allowable figure to be entered should be 67% of the total subscriptions paid for each year.
- https://my.ucu.org.uk/app/answers/detail/a_id/469/

Current industrial action

- Strike action on the following dates:
25, 26, 27, 28 and 29 September 2023
- Ballot for further action going out soon, you can join and take part in that vote!

Issues for tutors: anti-casualisation

UCU's anti-casualisation work focuses on campaigning to improve the working conditions of workers in the university who are on fixed term, fractional, and/or hourly paid contracts. More broadly, anti-casualisation seeks to combat the increasing drive of academia towards more reliance on casualised labour, and what this means for the future of the university sector.

Key issues for anti-casualisation include:

- staff employed on fixed term contracts
- staff doing pro rata/informal work
- PhD students and other staff members working as tutors
- improving job conditions for guaranteed hours/fixed term contract staff
- inconsistent work
- Pay gaps, and pay disparities across departments for equivalent work
- access to pensions

Anti-casualisation in UCU Edinburgh

- We work for each other and all casualised staff when discussing and negotiating with UoE, particularly during quarterly meetings between UCU and UoE HR
- We work with the Postgrad-PostDoc (PGPD) Network to improve working conditions for PGRs, postdocs and other casualised staff
- We organise an anti-casualisation sub-committee to hear about and discuss your issues with UCU Edinburgh.
- We keep members updated on relevant matters via meetings and the union newsletter.
- Analyse possible breaches of the collective agreement reached between the university and UCU Edinburgh in 2019

Key provisions from the collective agreement

- a. GH staff are not requested to and do not undertake activities for which they will not be paid;
- b. the activities they are requested to do are consistent with the grade profiles against which they have been appointed;
- c. hourly rates of pay in line with the grade profile will be consistent across the University;
- d. it is made clear to GH staff, and to those who work with them, any course-related lectures or other work related activities that GH staff must attend, and that such attendance will be classified as paid work;
- e. paid time for induction, requisite training and a specified amount of professional development (CPD) is built into the hours that are guaranteed, paid in line with the grade for the role performed

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

As casualised staff it is very important that you know your rights so that you can exercise them. This card outlines your employment rights and provides links to further information.

- You should have a contract with a full statement of your terms and conditions when you start your job:
www.ucu.org.uk/writtenterms
- You should have the same access to work facilities as other members of staff including computing facilities, photocopying and secretarial support. If you don't and the reason is because you are part-time or fixed-term then you may be able to challenge your employer.
- You have the legal right to join a union.
- Your employer has a legal responsibility for the health, welfare and safety of staff.

This extends beyond the physical environment and includes workload and stress.

- You should have a safe and healthy workspace: www.ucu.org.uk/safemembers
- Employment law provides protection for workers against discrimination at work on the grounds of sex, sexual orientation, race, disability, religion or belief and the membership of or non-membership of a trade union.
- If you have been working for more than two years you are entitled to redundancy pay.

What can you do?

- Join the union (it's free!)
- Discuss union issues openly to show solidarity in times of action.
- Let us know about problems you have with contracts/People and Money/any issues of hours and pay
- Asked to do extra work or cover lectures/marking?
“further your career“? Let us know!

1) False alarm:

Q2.

William FitzStephen portrays 12th century London as the perfect medieval city and is full of praise for the people who inhabit the city and run its institutions. He describes several of London's key characteristics in his biography of Thomas Becket. He emphasises the city's religious, social and political sensibility.¹ However, it can be strongly contested that London's characteristic may not have been as inherently unique as one might think them to be. Instead it is more accurate to say that London's characteristics were, on the whole, representative of medieval cities in a more general sense. This essay will examine London's characteristics as portrayed by FitzStephen and will compare the city to two other medieval cities- Constantinople, the capital city of the Byzantine Empire and Jerusalem, the most sacred city of the medieval Middle East- in an effort to reach a conclusion on which of the characteristics of FitzStephen's London are representative of medieval cities in general.

FitzStephen greatly emphasises the happiness of London's inhabitants throughout his description of the city. This strongly suggests to one that life was perfectly enjoyable in London- there are many beautiful gardens and the air itself is said to calm the people who live there.² This is perhaps just a more elaborate way of saying the general populace were extent this religious conversion was successful, or aided by science, is debatable.

2) Extensive copying:

The Society of Jesus did not send missionaries to China to disseminate or exchange Western scientific knowledge. The arrival of Jesuit science in China was in a sense a side effect of the accommodation strategy designed by Alessandro Valignano⁵ who after many failed attempts to establish the Christian mission legally, decided the Chinese mission should be approached differently from the mission in other countries. The natural theological spirituality of Chinese thought was seen to be the major obstacle for Jesuit introduction of monotheistic concepts such as creator, creation, soul, sin, grace, eternity⁶. Instead of 'portugalizing' Chinese converts, missionaries were asked to 'sinicize' themselves; that is, to begin their mission by learning the Chinese language and customs, therefore seeking acceptance by the Chinese people⁷. Matteo Ricci was the main practitioner of the accommodation strategy. His knowledge of China's bureaucratic society, which was based on Confucian ideology, allowed him to succeed in infiltrating Chinese literati. The most crucial step of this accommodation strategy was Ricci's attempt to sustain the idea that Confucianism⁸ was very close to Christianity, and could be a preliminary approach to understanding Christian theology. The Chinese literati showed great curiosity toward the explanation of the natural phenomena that he provided. His explanation of the skies as solid spheres, and the earth being a globe with four basic elements as opposed to five began the establishment of Western Science in China. His use of clocks, world maps, and astroblades also attracted their attention⁹, but

3) More common problems (e.g. improper paraphrasing):

⁷⁸ moved to cut budgets for food stamps, public service jobs, job training programs and other social welfare programs.³⁴ Reagan would subtly frame the issue of welfare as a contest between hard-working, blue collar whites and poor blacks who refused to work. The term “welfare queen” became a not-so subtle code for “lazy, greedy, black ghetto mother.”³⁵

It thus comes as no surprise that Reagan received only 7% of the black vote in 1984, with the plight of African Americans extremely low on his agenda.³⁶ Black intellectuals and activists understood Reagan’s strategy well. As Roger Wilkins highlighted in an article for Nation, “Reagan’s dirty little secret is that he has found a way to make racism palatable and politically potent again.”³⁷ He highlights that Reagan, while smiling alongside blacks in photographs, used conservative ideals such as state’s rights and anti-federalism to roll-back civil rights gains and polarise the nation. This is important to highlight as it reflects the political background on which racialized mass incarceration was achieved. As political scientist Vesla Weaver explains: “Votes cast in opposition to open housing, busing, the Civil Rights Act, and other measures time and again showed the same divisions as votes for amendments to crime bills... members of congress who voted against civil rights measures proactively designed crime legislation and actively fought for their proposals.”³⁸ Reagan made racists comfortable with their prejudices as he justified them through other political means, thus the neglect, criminalisation and incarceration of the African American community became justified and acceptable.

On the left side of the interface, there is a vertical toolbar with icons for home, search, check, edit, grid, and a red bar with the number '14'. Below these are icons for a funnel, a prohibition sign, a download arrow, and an information 'i' icon.

What to do if you spot plagiarism or have any other concerns:

- 1) Mark the essay as normal. (I find it easier to mark before looking at matches Turnitin detects). Don't deduct any marks, or refer to 'misconduct', 'cheating' etc., in your feedback.

What to do if you spot plagiarism or have any other concerns:

- 1) Mark the essay as normal. (I find it easier to mark before looking at matches Turnitin detects). Don't deduct any marks, or refer to 'misconduct', 'cheating' etc., in your feedback.
- 2) Email the course organiser asking whether reporting the case to HCA Misconduct is warranted
- 3) If so, email hca-misconduct@ed.ac.uk (and CC the course organiser) with the following information:
 - Student's exam number
 - Course name
 - Name of assessment and proportion of course (e.g. Essay, 40%)
 - Face value mark*
 - Brief summary of why you're flagging this piece of work

We'll let you know what happens next:

No formal action needed:

- No problem or so minor that it can be handled via feedback

Handled as 'poor scholarship' at School level:

- 'Poor scholarship' here has the technical meaning of plausibly accidental breaches of the rules. Don't send us cases just because you've come across e.g., a rubbish essay
- Ordinarily, student invited to a meeting with one of the School Academic Conduct Officers
- For minor cases, the student will be informed of the problems via email
- Possibly, mark reconsidered (< 10 marks); we will discuss with you

Mark penalty for 'academic misconduct' at School level

- A penalty of up to 10 marks can be imposed at School level

Referred to College level:

- Repeat offences / serious case
- Referred to College Academic Misconduct Officer
- Possible formal mark penalty (10, 20, 30 mark penalty; mark reduced to 0)

Things to bear in mind:

- Always refer: if in doubt, refer coursework to us.
- You don't need to contact students yourself: we will. If you think there are grounds for discussing the issues with the student yourself, let us know.
- Time constraints: we aim to decide how a piece of work is being handled before marks and feedback are released to students (i.e. within the '15-day turnaround'). When you open Turnitin to mark your assignments, have a quick check of the similarity score column and mark the assignments with higher scores first – this will mean that problem cases get referred to us early on in the marking cycle
- If you suspect academic misconduct, you must report it – it is not an option to deal with it informally with the student. This ensures fairness across the board – that all students are treated equally. Run all such cases by your course organiser.

If any student you teach is worried or confused about good practice:

- Feel free to direct them to either of the School Academic Conduct Officers.
- 'Guides to Good Academic Conduct' available as PDFs on the School website (student-friendly, and tailored to each of the three subject areas):
<https://www.ed.ac.uk/history-classics-archaeology/information-current-undergraduates/your-studies/assessment-and-feedback/academic-conduct>

Generative AI

- At present, detection technology is not sufficiently watertight to enable us to penalise suspected cases of AI use
- However, we can investigate if the essay contains fake references, which is a current glitch of ChatGPT
- Other grounds for suspicion: patches of perfect grammar, spelling and syntax followed by patches of poor grammar, spelling and syntax
- Regrettably, clever students will be able to integrate AI-produced material seamlessly with their own words
- If you have good specific reasons (such as the above) to suspect AI use, email HCA Misconduct

STUDENT SUPPORT

DISCLOSURE OF INTIMATE RELATIONSHIPS POLICY

Catriona Pickard (Catriona.Pickard@ed.ac.uk) – Senior Tutor/Director of Students

Student Support:

- A high quality and consistent support ecosystem that meets students' needs, comprising:
 1. Academic Cohort Leadership
 2. Student Support and Experience Team
 3. Teaching Team
 4. Integrated Peer Support Network
 5. Wider University and external services
- Student Support Framework \(sharepoint.com\)

Student Support Structure:

- In the 2023/24 academic session all taught students will be assigned:
 - A dedicated Student Adviser
 - Student Advisers are students first point of contact for any academic or wellbeing related enquiries
 - HCA has 9 specialist Student Advisers, who are part the Student Support and Experience Team (hca-ss@ed.ac.uk)
 - An Academic Cohort Lead
 - A colleague who supports a cohort of students that are usually on the same degree programme
 - Facilitates student relationships with the academic environment

Student Support Structure:

- Peer support: for students seeking advice on generic academic skills
 - Writing Centre
 - <https://uoesharepoint.com/sites/hss/hca/writing-centre>
 - History/Classics/Archaeology peer mentoring
 - <https://www.ed.ac.uk/history-classics-archaeology/information-current-undergraduates/your-studies/support-and-advice/peer-support>
- IAD <https://www.ed.ac.uk/institute-academic-development>

Student Support Structure:

- Teaching Teams: course organisers, lecturers, tutors, demonstrators, etc.
- Responsibilities of Teaching Teams:
 - Know how to signpost students to support structures in the University
 - Be familiar with the Helping Distressed Students Guide and the HCA Escalating Student Cases guidance and be able to arrange support for a student who appears to be in severe distress
- Teaching colleagues are not expected to provide specialist wellbeing care and should not attempt to do so
- Student Wellbeing Service
 - Provides support for students with issues that are affecting their health, wellbeing, studies or personal life
 - Teaching teams may refer students to the Wellbeing Service, however, it is strongly advised that referrals are made via a Student Adviser

Teaching Teams – academic support:

- Students may contact any member of a teaching team with course related questions or for specialist information
- Student expectations:
 - “You can speak to your lecturers, course organisers and other staff on your teaching team about your chosen subjects, course content, assessments and progress”
 - “Please ask the most relevant member of the teaching team on your course”
- Tutors should support students with course/topic-related academic queries
- You are NOT expected to
 - address questions relating to the student ‘journey’
- Writing references: Careers Service: referees and references and Reference Requests Guidance

Code of Student Conduct:

- The Code of Student Conduct applies to all students.
- It details the University's expectations about student's conduct with other students, staff and external organisations when:
 - undertaking activities as a UoE student
 - using services/facilities enjoyed by virtue of being a UoE student
 - in the vicinity or using any premises owned/leased or managed by UoE
 - any activity which adversely affects safety, interests or reputation of UoE
- ...and the procedures for dealing with allegations of unacceptable behaviour in a fair and consistent manner

Examples of misconduct:

- Disrupting academic or extra-curricular University activities
- Obstructing anyone in their duties or activities
- Violent, indecent, disorderly, threatening or offensive behaviour or language
- Harassment, victimisation or discrimination
- Unjustifiably infringing freedom of thought/expression while on University premises or engaging in University activities
- Failure to comply with University rules, regulations or policy
- Assessment offences
- Failing to comply with a previously impose penalty under this code

Conduct in the classroom:

- Minor disruptions can be managed in class: e.g., a student talking over you
- The escalation route if minor incidents persist or if a more serious incident takes place:
 - Contact your course organiser, who may escalate the case further if required (e.g., Head of Subject Area, Head of School)
- Misconduct allegations
 - Allegations of misconduct may be investigated and disciplinary action taken where appropriate
 - Investigations are conducted where there is sufficient evidence of conduct that could be regarded as a breach of the code

Disclosure of Intimate Relationships Policy:

- The Disclosure of Intimate Relationships Policy recognises that close and long-lasting relationships can and do develop between students and staff members, and between workplace colleagues
- The University does not wish to interfere in the personal lives of its students or staff. Nor does it seek to prohibit intimate relationships between consenting adults. However, it recognises that there are risks when one party is in a position of power, trust and authority relative to the other.
- The DIR Policy seeks to minimise risks and safeguard students and staff.

Policy Aims:

- Protect staff and students from
 - real/perceived conflicts of interest
 - misuse of power and exploited consent
- Protect staff from allegations of
 - exploiting their position of power, trust, authority
 - improper conduct towards those to whom they owe a duty of care and trust
 - bias, favouritism, harassment, victimisation
- Safeguard the reputation of the University as a safe place to study and work

Policy Principles:

- Staff are expected to:
 - Act professionally and with integrity
 - identify and avoid actual/perceived conflict of interest situations
- Students are expected to act with integrity
- A staff member in an intimate relationship with a student must not be involved in any aspect of the assessment, examination, supervision or pastoral care of the student
- A staff member in an intimate relationship with another member of staff must not be involved in any aspect of the direct or indirect recruitment, selection, review, recognition, promotion or other management activity or process involving the other member of staff

Requirement to Disclose:

- To protect both staff and student:
 - Staff are strongly discouraged from intimate contact with a current student
 - Staff must disclose, in writing, if they are in, or have been in an intimate relationship with an incoming/current student
 - And also make the student aware of their need to disclose
 - Must also disclose if their relationship with a current student comes to an end
 - Where a staff member is also a student, the staff member must disclose, in writing, if they are in, or have been in, an intimate relationship with an incoming/current student with whom they will have or do have a professional connection

Disclosures:

- Disclosures
 - Will be handled sensitively and with respect for the privacy of both parties
 - Will be shared on a confidential, strictly need to know basis
- Failure to disclose is a disciplinary matter, up to and including dismissal
 - Staff who fail to disclose will be treated fairly
- Concerns about a staff–student or staff–staff relationship should be report to the HR Adviser
 - HR Advisory Contacts

Maintaining Boundaries:

- Staff are strongly advised to maintain clear professional boundaries
- “think twice” before, for example:
 - meeting a student one-to-one outside office hours and off campus
 - corresponding with a student one-to-one on anything unrelated to the student’s studies or their University residence
 - befriending and communicating with a student on a personal basis via Facebook or other social media channels
 - sharing personal information or problems with a student
 - physically comforting/embracing a student
 - using terms of endearment
 - giving a student a gift or lending or borrowing items/money to or from a student

HCA Peer Support (1)

- What does HCA Peer Support entail in AY23-24?
 - HCA Mentoring: Peer Mentors/Leaders
 - HCA Clans
 - HCA Writing Centre
 - Main ethos: to support the needs of the student body and to 'build academic and social communities within the university'
 - Student-led and supported by EUSA
- HCA Mentoring
 - Pairs pre-honours students with honours students; usually in same subject area
 - Students sign up via an anonymous form and mentors choose based on alignment of interests, commonalities, etc

Peer Support (2)

- HCA Clans

- Developed by History Society, supported by the School
- Expanded to include all of HCA this year
- Clan leaders linked to cohorts relevant to their subject areas
 - Clan leaders have been assigned to offer support to first-year students
- The Clan leaders will organise activities both academic and social
 - Have had EUSA training
- Strong links to societies (History Society, mainly) but has expanded since

Peer Support (3): The Writing Centre

- The Writing Centre
 - For both UG and PG students
 - Employing several PhD students to talk to students about their writing
 - 1:1 basis; 45 minutes in length
 - Online centralised booking system
 - Each student can book two sessions per year
 - Last year the Writing Centre ran 639 tutorials – it is a very valuable resources for students
 - Furthermore, it takes some of the pressure off of you in terms of writing feedback in a course/tutorial context

Peer Support (4)

- Who provides support for the peer support schemes?
 - Senior Student Leader (Emily Johnston and one other PhD student)
 - EUSA
 - The Student Support and Experience Team (SSET)
 - Specifically, the Student Experience Officer (Cristyn King)
 - The Director of UG Engagement and Experience (Tereza Valny)
- What can you do with these services?
 - They come in when the limits of your own role is reached
 - You can point students to mentoring, the clan system, and particularly the Writing Centre
